

Jennifer Cowart is a hospitalist and patient safety officer at Mayo Clinic, Florida. She completed her internal medicine residency and clinical pharmacology fellowship at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, TX, then the Chief Residency in Quality and Safety (CRQS) program at the Houston Veterans Affairs Medical Center. She worked as a hospitalist at the Houston VA Medical Center before relocating to Jacksonville.

Since 2019, Dr. Cowart has served as the MCF patient safety officer and the vice chair of Q\quality for the Division of Hospital Internal Medicine and is currently the chair of the Florida Operations Command Center at Mayo Clinic. She has interests in healthcare policy and advocacy, quality improvement, mortality review, and systems education for residents and students.