

Lisa Rinaman has served as the St. Johns Riverkeeper since February 2012. In this role, she serves as the chief advocate and public's voice for the St. Johns River. Responsibilities include: holding regulatory agencies and those polluting the river accountable; identifying and advocating for solutions that will protect and restore the river; working with government entities, businesses, community leaders and citizens to resolve problems that impact the river's health; and communicating with the media and the public to educate and raise awareness about important river-related issues.

Lisa also serves as the current chair of the recently formed Waterkeepers Florida, a formal collaboration of Waterkeeper Alliance programs united across Florida representing communities and waterways in and around the watersheds of the Indian River Lagoon, Collier County, Caloosahatchee River, Tampa Bay, Lake Worth, Matanzas River, Miami, St. Johns River, St. Marys River, Suwannee River, Suncoast, Emerald Coast, and Apalachicola River.
